

Confidential Information and Intellectual Property Agreement: MOSIS/TSMC 65nm CMOS Technology “tsmc65nm”

Under agreements between the University of Toronto (the “University”), TSMC, and the University of Southern California’s Information Sciences Institute (doing business as “The MOSIS Service”, or “MOSIS”), MOSIS may provide information and technology to the University for research purposes. The University may make this information and technology available to me for research and educational purposes.

The MOSIS Customer Agreement with the University states, in section 6.c:

EACH PARTY SPECIFICALLY AGREES THAT IT SHALL NOT DISCLOSE ANY MATERIAL WHICH MAY BE CONSIDERED PROPRIETARY OR CONFIDENTIAL MATERIAL OF THE OTHER PARTY OR OF ANY VENDORS TO ANY THIRD PARTIES. PROPRIETARY MATERIAL SHALL INCLUDE BUT SHALL NOT BE LIMITED TO, PROPRIETARY VENDOR INFORMATION SUCH AS YIELD AND PARAMETRIC DATA, WHETHER IT WAS PROVIDED TO CUSTOMERS OR EXTRACTED BY THEM. EACH PARTY AGREES THAT IT SHALL BE PRECLUDED BY 18 U.S.C. 1905 AND ANY AND ALL OTHER APPROPRIATE LAWS AND REGULATIONS FROM KNOWINGLY DIVULGING THE TRADE SECRETS OF THE OTHER PARTY, AND/OR ANY THIRD-PARTY VENDOR.

My signature below acknowledges that I have read and understood Section 6.c in the MOSIS Customer Agreement (shown above), which governs access to proprietary documentation supplied by MOSIS foundries and other vendors. I understand that proprietary material supplied through the MOSIS secure document server or any other means must be viewed only by myself and not shown to any other person. These documents may not be copied to or stored in any medium (paper or on a computer) that is not under strictly secure control at all times.

By signing below, I accept these terms and conditions.
